Minister's Musings

Legacies of Reconciliation

On Monday in Easter Week Pope Francis left this world and entered his eternal rest. April 21st is also the feast day of Saint Anselm. In view of Pope Francis' life and the legacy St. Anselm, it is perhaps not a coincidence that this particular date has linked them for us. The ministry of both these men were marked by navigating the troubled relationships of powerful systems around them to provide growth and peace between people previously divided.

Pope Francis was best known for challenging the boundaries around the Roman Catholic church. He was the first pope to come from outside of Europe. He pushed the church to value the lives and voices of those on the fringes of society, the poor, immigrants, and the LGBTQ community. He appointed a far more diverse group of bishops than any of his predecessors and he worked to create unity across religious lines. His life consistently illustrated the humility of a servant in contrast to the supremacy of his title. He lived 900 years after St. Anselm but shared his heartbeat.

St. Anselm lived in England during the late eleventh century, positioned as a religious leader between warring monarchs, ecclesiastical, and papal authorities. It was during his life that The Great Schism occurred, dividing the Eastern Orthodox and Western Roman Catholic churches. His refusal to deny his moral and theological convictions in the face of such conflict sent him into exile twice. Nevertheless, the church recognized the spirit of wisdom through his life and canonized him, eventually also making him a doctor of the church.

Saint Anselm was noted for laying some sophisticated theological groundwork; he had a scholastically driven mind. While I appreciate his philosophical principles, the thing I find most winsome about him is the appeal he makes to reason, rather than pure deference to Medieval scholasticism. He encouraged people to think, argue, and strive to understand God. He assumed the world was created by a God who desired to be known and would therefore express divinity through the created order. He trusted God to work through the minds and hearts of thinking humans.

In a time when our culture elevates divisiveness and tribalism, I take inspiration from those who illustrate their faith through the wisdom of humility and love.

-Rev Becki

Collect: Almighty God, whose servant Anselm helped your church to understand its faith in your eternal Being, perfect justice, and saving mercy: Provide your church in all ages with devout and learned scholars and teachers, that we may be able to give a reason for the hope that is in us; through Jesus Christ our Lord, who lives and reigns with you and the Holy Spirit, one God, for ever and ever. Amen.

Come Away with Me... Culpeper Regional Retreat

Who doesn't love summer camp?! The amazing Culpeper Region has joined once again to offer a camp experience for us to share. The camp will be held at Shrine Mont for the weekend of July 11-13. This is a wonderful opportunity to meet people from around the diocese, enjoy fun, fellowship, and worship together away from the pressures of home.

The costs are for double occupancy rooms for adults are $91 per person, per night (plus tax) or $182 for the weekend. The cost includes meals. If an adult would like a private room, it is $119 per night. Children 4-13 years old cost $62 per night. Scholarships are available, so do not let the cost keep you from registering!

A deposit needs to be placed to hold our rooms, so please let Becki know if you are interested in this exciting experience.

Creation Care April 2025

Happy Earth Month.

Earth Day has taken 55 years to become a month and, I think, every day should be an Earth Day. Earth Day was this last Tuesday and it is no coincidence that it falls in what our Orthodox siblings call "Bright Week", the week after Easter.

It is also the time when the Resurrected Jesus walked the earth and invites us to join Him. Archbishop Hosam of the Diocese of Jerusalem calls the Resurrection a calling, not a comfort. It is the glorious mystery of our faith and, I believe, that time when we are called out from whatever tomb that we have built for ourselves to follow Jesus in the Way of taking care of each other and all of God's Creation.

"Nature is a magnificent book in which God speaks to us and grants us a glimpse of his infinite beauty and goodness. Rather than a problem to be solved, the world is a joyful mystery to be contemplated with gladness and praise"

These are words left behind by Pope Francis, always an advocate for our climate and God's world; I can only imagine what sights that he is seeing now.

This Easter Season and for Earth Month and for all times, we are invited out to enjoy the mystery of Creation with gladness and praise and join hands in caring for the least of these, wherever we might find them.

In His service,
Deacon Kathryn

Annual Review of Piedmont and Grace Church Covenant

Many of you may have heard us speak about this "Covenant" that was created last year between Grace and Piedmont Church. But what's it all about? Why was it created? What's the purpose of it? Who's idea was it? Just a few questions you may have!

The Rev. Shirley Smith Graham, Transitional Minister, from the Virginia Episcopal Diocese, worked with Grace and Piedmont last spring, as we began our search for a new priest-in-charge. With her assistance, both church vestries worked to create a document. It consists of three main sections: administrative, financial and spiritual. And contains both churches mission statements. While describing our relationship with Grace church, it serves as a guide should any conflict arise between us. Both Grace and Piedmont agreed to a yearly review of it.

Copies of the covenant have been placed on the bulletin boards in the sanctuary and the parish house. If anyone would like to review it, please feel free to pick up a copy. Any questions can be directed to Rev. Becki or any member of the vestry.
